

2011 Veterans Day Poster selected by the National Committee

Received: September 25, 2011
Type: Email/Facebook Update
From: John Bircher, MOPH Facebook Administrator
Posted: September 26, 2011

The Veterans Day National Committee recently selected the National Veterans Day poster for 2011 designed by John Magine, a Vietnam Veteran who works as a visual information specialist at the VA Medical Center in West Palm Beach, Fla. It is the second time the committee has selected his artwork for the national poster – his previous design won the 2008 contest. “It was a great honor to have my work selected again as this year’s winning poster design. I attempted to create a design that reflected not only the unique year, month and day of the 2011 celebration, but the National pride, courage and sacrifice our Veterans represent: the guardians of our freedom and liberty,” said Magine. Use this opportunity to display the posters at VA facilities and remind Veterans that we appreciate their service and sacrifice on our behalf. The poster was shipped to VA facilities nationwide Friday, and can also be viewed and downloaded in a variety of formats from the Veterans Day Web site:

<http://www.va.gov/opa/vetsday/gallery.asp>

